

BORIS BIANCHERI CHIAPPORI

Born on the 3rd of November 1930

Married to Flavia Arzeni, with two sons.

His father, Augusto, was a Diplomat and Minister Plenipotentiary and General Director of International Organizations, Ministry for Foreign Affairs.

Graduated in Law from Rome University in 1953.

His Diplomatic Career began in 1956, starting in the Cabinet of Minister for Foreign Affairs, then in the Italian Embassy in Athens, in the Consulate in Tolone and for a short period in Japan.

Counsellor, London Embassy, 1972.

Chief of Cabinet of the Minister for Foreign Affairs, 1975.

Chief of Cabinet of the Ministry for Foreign Affairs, 1978.

Ambassador to Tokyo, 1979.

General Director, Staff Department, Ministry for Foreign Affairs, 1984.

In 1985, he was appointed General Director for Political Affairs.

During this period he was the Italian negotiator of the European Political Cooperation Treaty, which is one of the basic tests for cooperation between European Countries in policy issues.

Ambassador to London, 1987.

Ambassador to Washington, 1991.

Secretary General of the Ministry for Foreign Affairs, November 1995 .

President of ANSA, September 1997.

President of Institute for International Political Studies (ISPI), November 1997

President of MARSH S.p.A. - MMC Group, July 2001

Editorialist of the daily "La Stampa"

In the United States he received an "ad honorem" degree in Literature from Mercy College and a second in Law from St. John's University.

He is also the author of the following books

"L'Ambra del Baltico", published by Feltrinelli in 1994;

"Accordare il mondo – La diplomazia nell'età globale", published by Laterza in 1999;

"Il ritorno a Stomeressee", published by Feltrinelli in 2002.

